

CENTRE OF BIOMEDICAL ETHICS AND CULTURE
Sindh Institute of Urology and Transplantation

Nauman Faizi

Biosketch

Dr. Nauman Faizi is an Assistant Professor, Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, at the Lahore University of Management Sciences. He holds a PhD in Religious Studies, Scripture Interpretation and Practice from the University of Virginia, USA.

Dr. Nauman has published in international journals on topics such as “Averroes on the Relationship between Philosophy and Scripture: A Conditional Hierarchy,” in Journal of Scriptural Reasoning, and “Metaphysics Precedes Ontology: Criticism before Truth,” in The Maya Tree Liberal Arts Review.

Dr. Nauman has been invited as speaker and guest lecturer by various international universities, and has also presented papers at various international conferences.

He has been awarded the “All-University Graduate Teaching Assistant Award” by the University of Virginia (2014), and the “Henry Luce Foundation Research Grant in Religion and International Affairs,” as part of a team researching the development of ethno-linguistic approaches for studying value-predicates in religious discourse (2013 – 2016).

CENTRE OF BIOMEDICAL ETHICS AND CULTURE

7th Floor, Suleman Dawood Transplant Tower, Sindh Institute of Urology and Transplantation (SIUT), Karachi, 74200 Pakistan
Phone# (92-21) 99216957, Email: cbec.siut@gmail.com
Website: www.siut.org/bioethics