

Professor Elizabeth Anne Bukusi: MBChB, M.Med (ObGyn), MPH, PhD, PGD (Research Ethics), MBE is a Fellow of the African Academy of Sciences (FAAS) and fellow of East Central and Southern College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ECSACOG). She is a Senior Principal Clinical Research Scientist at the Kenya Medical Research Institute (KEMRI), a Research Professor at the University of Washington (Departments of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Global health), an honorary lecturer at Aga Khan University in Nairobi and Maseno University (Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology) and Volunteer Clinical faculty - Professor at the University of California San Francisco (Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology & Reproductive Sciences). An Affiliate faculty at the Centre for Biomedical Research and Ethics and Culture (CBEC) at the Sind Institute for Urology and Transplantation (SIUT) and an honorary lecturer at the University of Nairobi (UON) Faculty of Veterinary Medicine. She is also the lead faculty for the Bioethics program at the Amref International University (AMIU). Prof. Bukusi, in collaboration with Dr. Craig Cohen (UCSF), established the KEMRI Research Care and Training Program (RCTP) in 1995. In addition to substantial experience in conducting socio-behavioral and biomedical research and providing HIV care, mentoring and training health care and research personnel to enhance local and international capacity, she has a strong interest in research and clinical ethics and the development of systems and structures for regulation of research. She is an accredited executive coach and a trainer of mentors and committed to capacity building, leadership development and mentoring. She was the founding chairperson of the National Bioethics Society of Kenya, (BSK), a former board member of AVAC, and chaired the WHO HRP Alliance (capacity building for RH research) 2016 to 2021 and remains a trustee for the HIV Trust.